CONFERENCE EVENTS

A BRIDGE TOO FAR

This is bridge building but not as you know it! Each team builds a slightly different bridge.

All must be freestanding and strong enough to support a moving load.

No sagging or buckling. The ultimate aim is to link all bridges and move a load from first to last.

ALL YOUR EGGS

Put your heads together and crack a Blue Peter-style ice breaker challenge.

All Your Eggs asks teams to make a basket strong enough to support an egg that's been dropped from a great height.

Easy, right? Not when you only have paper, string and sticky tape to work with!

BALANCING ACT

Can you balance an entire team on a plank suspended by a block in the middle?

Can you do it without either end touching the floor?

It's no mean feat but it is possible! A slight shift in weight and the plank turns into a seesaw.

CLAP HAPPY

A great mid-conference energiser or ice breaker activity, Clap Happy is a great way to banish barriers and get all delegates on the same wavelength.

Barriers will be broken down and participants will work in harmony to make marvellous rhythms and movements that build up into one high energy performance piece.

FINAL COUNTDOWN

To infinity and beyond! Countdown to lift off as your guests frantically try to assemble a real, working rocket.

Perfect for sending energy levels into orbit, this space-age challenge will have conference attendees fist-bumping and yelling like a real control room as their high-powered aircraft blast up to 100 feet in the air.

HELIUM TUBE

Lower a tube into the ground without actually touching it?

Really? Yes, it can be done, but only with teamwork, a little lateral thinking, lightning-fast reactions and bags of determination!

We've added helium to the tube to make things more interesting and challenging.

HUMAN ROLLER COASTER

Bring the crazy ups and downs of the world's favourite fairground ride to your team building event!

Once started, the Human Rollercoaster is impossible to stop.

The question is, will you keep building the track quick enough to keep your team mates going in the right direction?

HUMAN SHOE LACES

Funny and frustrating in equal measures, Human Shoe Laces is an ingenious ice breaker that's ideal for conferences.

Suited to large groups (up to 150 people), this bonding activity requires all delegates to work together to tie a huge human knot.

They'll have to work fast!

PARACHUTE PANDEMONIUM

Wake them up, shake them up and break the ice with a series of against the clock team building challenges.

The difference? Your teams will be competing for the prize with an extra impediment to conquer: a massive parachute, which flaps around in the breeze and seriously hampers progress!

ROCKET

Construction-based team building tasks are brilliant when it comes to breaking down barriers and banishing preconceived ideas. Rocket icebreaker gets everyone communicating, thinking and participating instantly.

Teams must join forces and use their individual member talents to build and launch their own rockets.

SIX COUNT

Count six to win in this frantic team building game, which starts with an energetic facilitator and ends in hilarious confusion.

Teams must follow the actions of the game leader, who introduces new arm movements on the count.

The more arm movements end up in play, the harder the game becomes!

STEPPING STONES

Stepping stones just got seriously tricky! We've given the classic playground game a team building twist. In our version, the team is split into two even numbered groups and each group faces the other as they stand in a line of hoop stepping stones. The team's goal is for the two teams to switch sides following the rules.

STICKS, STRINGS, BLINDFOLD & THINGS

A classic conference energiser that will get all delegates participating, Sticks, Strings, Blindfolds & Things uses simple objects to bond groups fast.

We've created a whole host of quick and effective team work challenges that will motivate groups and make them think about the ways in which they work.

Can you build a tower capable of supporting a marshmallow using only spaghetti, string and sticky tape?

Roll up your sleeves, get creative and put your construction skills to the test. Work in teams, pooling your collective skills and knowledge to build a tower that won't topple.

Tube Grooves is a fun and fast-paced musical team building activity that's perfect for conferences, corporate events and away days.
